The home club became demoralized in the third inning, and the Providence secured 7 on four single hits, two bases on balls and three fielding errors. The score by innings is as follows:

St. Louis.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Another Whiteash for Cincinnati.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—The Louisville club gave the Cincinnati a bad drubbing to-day before 1,800 people. Both clubs played a good fielding game, but the home club got on to White and better him all over the field. White's pitching was also very wild. Following is the score by innings:
Louisville.....0 0 2 1 0 0 0 0 0 8

Mr. Spalding Talks.
A. G. Spalding, President of the Chicago Club has been talking to the reporter at St. Louis paper, and when asked what would be the outcome of the meeting of the Conference Committees of the League and American Association, said he could not say, as he did not know what the American Association people wanted. The reporter then told him that the Association either wanted the League to go back on its action reinstating the disqualified players or they would demand that the reserve rule be at present maintained between the two associations be wiped out. Whereupon Mr. Spalding said:

"As to our action in reinstating our players, why, of course, that will stand. We are not going to back out on that. It seems to me to be a piece of impertinence on the part of the Association to attempt to interfere in the management of the private affairs of the League. The reinstatement of those players is a matter with which we have nothing whatever to do. Under the national agreement each association is given the power to deal with its own players. We might as well just as much right they reinstated the players named at their last meeting. They reinstated him without consulting us, and no doubt would think us very impertinent if we called them to account for it." Mr. Spalding then read the rules governing the cases of those players, who are granted to each association the power to deal with its own players, whether reserve-rule breakers or contract jumpers.

"But," said the reporter, "they claim that the day resolution places the power to deal with three players in the hands of the Arbitration Committee."
"What is the day resolution? It is a resolution adopted by the League, and they temporarily let it slide in order to reinstate those players. I believe the American Association also adopted a similar resolution, but the day resolution is not incorporated in the National agreement, and was never adopted by the Association jointly. Either association has a perfect right to repeal the resolution from their by-laws whenever they see fit. In taking in Lucas and his players, the League benefited not only itself, but the American Association and all the members of the National agreement. The American Association is not going to take in Lucas and his players, and the American Association would be certain to be formed by the Association, as thirty-four good ball players are not going to remain idle. A business man must be taken of this matter the same as any other. This high moral business is all both. There are $200,000 invested in base ball in the league, and no business man would be taken in order to get that money out. Is there anything in the American Association which is invested in the world in which so much capital is invested where the world is so much interested? I think not. But as I have said, would nothing about the American Association can complain. Everything we did we had a right to do under the National agreement. Now we have no right to interfere in the case of Mr. Lucas' players who were expelled or blacklisted by the American Association and do not intend doing so. They alone have the power to deal with those players."

The Secretary of the Browns Dead.
ST. LOUIS, May 2.—David L. Reed, who has been Secretary of the St. Louis Browns Base Ball Club for several years past, died very suddenly at 10 o'clock to-night of heart disease. Mr. Reed was a well known sporting and dramatic writer, and had been connected at different times with several leading journals, both East and West. His relatives live in New York, and his remains will probably be taken there for interment.

Diamond Dust.
Brady weighs 200 pounds.
Anson is against the new pitching rule.
The Sporting Life says: "Great is Lucas, but greater is Lucas."

The Indianapolis Club playing ball with the book club boys is Law Todd's latest. Pete Browning says he is going to lead the American Association batmen this year.

The exhibition season has not been a profitable one this year, owing to stormy weather.

Tom Sullivan is making strenuous efforts to secure Shaw and Daly since their reinstatement.

The able base ball editors of the St. Louis Republican and Cleveland Plaindealer are "reasting" one another.

The Indianapolis club now has three catchers, having signed Mack, who played with Providence last year. He will join the club at once.

This season the costumes of the New Yorks will be white blouse and breeches, with maroon trimmings, maroon stockings and belt and white cap.

Jerry Durzan was four times at the bat and hit the ball safe as many times in the Detroit Buffalo game on Friday. Jerry says he will "booze" no more this season.

The Athletics have complied with the new rule and placed a rubber home plate on the ground, but have not yet laid a marble or glass plate in front of the pitcher's box. The rubber plate is giving great satisfaction there.

Caylor wears out "feen" lead pencils a week. He is a student of Lucas, and that nice-smooth talking gentleman continues to eat three meals a day and sleep eight hours at night. He weighs more than he did when the Cincinnati crank opened out on him.

The Philadelphia infield is now settled with Farrar, Andrews and McKinley on the bases and Bastian at short. Foster will be released and is wanted by Wilmington, and Meyers would have no objection to signing with a club in which he could play regularly.

Members of all the classes in Yale College openly express dissatisfaction at the way the freshman nine is made up. Recently a game was played by the regular nine and a nine made up of defeated candidates, and the latter warned the regulars up to the tune of 7 to 4.

The Omaha club has been notified that their pitcher, Kent, is ineligible for play, having been blacklisted last year for jumping a Poria contract. If this be true, the three games won by Kansas City and two by Cleveland from the Omahas will not count in the championship race, for Kent pitched in all of them.

There has been a sensible fellow. He says that as soon as the weather grows good and warm he will try his hand at the game. If he finds that he can play ball as he used to in the old times, he will re-enter the professional arena, but if he finds that he has lost his grip, he will not attempt to play and will quit the field forever.—St. Louis Sayings.

There has been a deal of trouble over umpires already in the brief space since the Southern League championship season began, and ten games have been forfeited and several protested. The trouble arises from the system adopted. The games are umpired by local umpires who, the game being new, are inexperienced and not well versed on the rules, and also lean to their home club.

The Black Ravens and Little Potatoes will play several exhibition games on their Kentucky Avenue Park this week. The Ravens and Haydens are arranging for a series of games for the championship of North Illinois street. The former will each day present their famous battery, Licorice and Anthracite. Licorice has been known to strike twenty-seven men in a game. He pitches a bicycle wheel.

The Sporting Life makes some very bad breaks once in a while. It says: "Umpire Brennan, of the Western League, last week forgot the number of balls required to send a batter to first base. At Cleveland he sent seventeen men to bases on six balls, while the rules require seven." If the able editor will only look over the rules of the Western League, he will find that six balls gives a batsman his base. Brennan thoroughly understands his business.

Owing to some misunderstanding none of the local papers received any information concerning the Indianapolis club game until yesterday. The score stood 2 to 2 at the end of the ninth inning, when the home team had to leave to catch the train for Omaha. Casey and McGuire were the battery for Indianapolis and Kennedy and McGindley for Keokuk. The home team secured but two hits off the former's delivery and Casey was batted for five.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

Yesterday's Meeting of the Indiana Branch of the National Association.

The Indiana Branch of the Travelers' Protective Association held an afternoon session at the Grand Hotel yesterday, there being quite a number of members in attendance with the following officers: Frank A. Hoyt, Vice President for the State; W. L. Baker, Secretary and Treasurer; and J. B. Pugh, President of the Advisory Board. The object of the National Association, briefly stated, is: (1) to promote free trade among the several States of the Union; (2) to secure reduction of passenger rates to merchant travelers on all railroads; (3) to obtain a fair and equitable allowance for baggage; and (4) to secure hotel accommodations commensurate with the prices paid. At yesterday's meeting reports were received from various committees, among which was one from a special committee appointed to secure rates for members of the association to Buffalo, where the National Association will meet in June. The meeting also discussed some proposed changes in the organic law, and unanimously ordered O. P. Pindell for the position of President of the National Association.

To the Readers of the Sentinel.

Almost every day some enterprising dealer through these columns invites you to his establishment. This is commendable and worthy. So, also, we extend you an invitation to call at No. 23 South Meridian street, believing that if you accept, we can sell you the very latest style of Spring or Summer hat as low as any competitor. We can do this for the reason that we were late in visiting the Eastern manufacturers, and thus secured the advantage of reduced prices, besides getting hold of the very latest styles which were not out early in the season.

A New Use for Cork.

The success of the American make of "Lisco" floor cloth is fully deserved. It is unequalled for elegance in design and coloring. Suitable for all classes of dwellings, dining rooms, halls, churches and hospitals. Inferior foreign imitations are on the market, but the superiority of the American make is beyond controversy. All carpet dealers keep it.

This Company, whose room under the Bates House has been so thoroughly reconstructed, the ceilings and walls being freshly papered with imported paper from Paris, whose Chinese scenery is quite graphic, and has plate-glass front besides other improvements, will have a grand opening next Saturday, when a special souvenir will be presented to all purchasers. The store is at the corner of the artistic hands of Prof. G. F. Smith, of New York. The Company's decorator, who is constantly engaged in beautifying the interior of the Atlantic and Pacific stores all over the United States, is one of the handsomest in this city. Mr. Pepper, the well-known Superintendent of this house, which imports all its goods direct, is the right man in the right place.

Entirely Satisfactory.

Sherman's has been found by residents of this city and by the public generally to be a first-class restaurant in every respect, and customers are not only treated to a good square meal at reasonable prices, but are always pleased with the courteous attention they receive.
